About Michigan ACE Women's Network

In concert with the Inclusive Excellence Group of the American Council on Education (ACE), the Michigan ACE Women's Network is committed to identifying, developing the leadership of, advancing, and supporting the retention of women in higher education throughout the state. The Michigan ACE Women's Network is open to all public and private, two-year and four-year institutions in the state and requires institutional membership for participation in Network activities.

The Michigan ACE Women's Network was formed in 1978, one year after the national program was inaugurated. Initially, a planning committee (now the Executive Board) was formed to represent all segments of higher education in the state, and a woman holding a senior-level administrative position was identified to lead the effort. An Executive Board and State Chair currently conduct the Network's activities.

Speakers and Consultants Bureau

MI-ACE is committed to identifying, developing the leadership of, advancing, and supporting women in higher education through the state. In an effort to raise awareness about MI-ACE and issues affecting women leaders in higher education, the Speakers and Consultants Bureau functions through the Professional Development Committee.

What is the Speakers and Consultants Bureau?

- It is a resource for member institutions and other organizations to utilize the vast amounts of expertise within the state;
- It allows individuals and organizations to grow through accessible and relevant professional development.

We are Michigan's premiere organization of women in higher education and your connection to speakers and consultants. If you are in need of dynamic speakers or consultants who are experts in their field, please contact:
